NUDE MODELS.

Some of the Mysteries of the Studios Unveiled.

Kansas City Times Interview.

On my return from Europe I became a member of the Artistic League, in New York City, and had a studio next to Hartley, the sculptor. While looking about for a model I heard of a lady who had the reputation of having a wonderfully fine figure, and who would be apt to be willing to serve as a model, since she was very poor and out of employment. I sent her a request to call at my studio. She did so, accompanied by a friend, a lady petite in figure, but with a lovely face. The lady I had sent my card to told me she had just found employment, and could not therefore serve me, but her friend, whom she introduced as Mrs. Wood, had consented to act as a model for me, provided she proved satisfactory. I told Mrs. Wood that it was customary for artists to inspect their models before engaging their services; would she retire to the ante-room and remove her apparel? She said she would return the next day and submit to the inspection. Next day she returned, looking very pale and nervous. She evidently dreaded of appearing in the nude state. Hartley was in the studio with me, and we spoke kindly to her and bade her dismiss her agitation. When she stepped out of the ante-room she presented a picture that was a feast to our eyes, we agreed that she was one of the most perfectly formed creatures we had ever seen. Her neck, shoulders, torso and limbs were models of themselves, while her face, in womanly sweetness and artistic regularity was matchless. When she once more attired herself, I told her it would be a week before I should be able to give her employment. When she heard this her eyes filled with tears. I saw there were some grief troubling her. I asked her if she was suffering—if she needed money. Then she told me she was the wife of a gentleman who for several years had been a correspondent in Europe; his health had been impaired; he had returned home and was now lying sick in bed at their boarding place. They were very poor, and the wife determined to do something for their support. She went as she told her story, and I saw that she was sincere. I gave her $10 as a loan, and sent her with a note of introduction to Church, the artist, knowing that he would give her employment in the young ladies' class. I was successful in my efforts. Church was delighted with her figure, and for some time she made her $7 a day posing as a model before the young ladies' class. She retained her nom de plume of Mrs. Woods, and her identity was never discovered. The ladies tried in every way to discover who she was, but never succeeded. She always appeared before them in a nude state, and after her studies she would slip into her room and dress and slip out of the building surreptitiously. She became a popular model and continued to earn a large competence till her husband got well and was enabled to renew work. Then she retired from the field as a model. Her husband knew how she had made money during his illness, but he never mentioned it to me; his gratefulness, however, for my favor was manifested in a thousand delicate ways. You would be surprised to hear his name. He is a well known writer in New York.

THE ORDEAL

The Great Desideratum found at last. Castor oil made pleasant. Parry's palatable CASTOR OIL is equal in medicinal activity to the ordinary unprepared Castor Oil, but has a pleasant in place of a nauseous taste. It is easily taken and retained by the stomach, even of delicate persons. Children take it readily and make no fuss about it. Osburn & Shoemaker, Agents for Washoe County. apr17

—There is an assessment of $3 on Orr Ditch stock.
—Con. Virginia has declared a dividend of fifty cents.
The District Court adjourned yesterday until Aug. 15.
—The U. S. Circuit Court has adjourned until the first Wednesday in August.
—Chas. Becker fell off his horse near the Pavilion about 5 o'clock last evening. He is in bed to-day.
—Those interested in the muscular movement will meet in the Wine House at nine o'clock this evening.
—Rev. T. S. Uren of Truckee will preach in the Methodist church here next Sunday, morning and evening.
—Chaffield will hold an auction at his sales room next Saturday at 1:30 P. M. The sale will include furniture, glass ware and a great variety of useful articles.
—A youngster saw a lady take a set of false teeth out of her mouth, which surprised him greatly. He said "Mrs. Ames can you take out your tongue too?"
—M. C. Lake will be home to-morrow morning. The Trustees of the Agriculturals Society, of which he is President, will meet to-morrow, and change the date of the State Fair.
—Alfred Jose received a letter this morning from his brother, W. Jose, a resident of Bolivia, South America. He writes that there is heavy fighting and dreadful diseases in the Chilian war with Peru.
—Persons wishing fresh trout should leave their orders at Simpson's a day in advance. Fresh fruit, vegetables, etc., are received every day at his store. Groceries of every description are constantly on hand.
—Isaac Barnett offers great bargains in dry goods. He bought a large lot of the remainder stock of A. Strassburger & Co., at such an immense reduction that he can afford to sell at prices far below the usual rates.
—The books of the Savings Bank still remain in the vault of that institution, under the custody of the Sheriff, accessible under official supervision to the defendants for the purpose of making out a statement, but not for the examination of other parties.
—Yesterday the water from the new reservoir was again turned into the pipes. The greatly increased pressure has since burst a number of connections on the streets. The water now comes with so much force that it is available for washing windows or sprinkling the streets from garden hose.

The Sage Brush Nightingale.
The Parisian has the following concerning the sage-brush nightingale: Mlle. Emma Nevada, who is singing at Her Majesty's Theatre, in London, is called in the West "the Sage-brush Nightingale." Her name of the stage is Emma Corinne Wikom, and she is a daughter of a Nevada physician. As a little girl she displayed rather remarkable musical and dramatic capacity, and was sent abroad to study under Marchesi, at Vienna. The young lady is short in stature and plump; she is not handsome, but has a pretty mouth, expressive eyes, and a charming manner.

BODIE LETTER.

Twenty-Four Hours in a Bodie Stage—Sensations on Wheels—Costly Decorations at Bodie.

BODIE, July 5, 1880.
Editor Gazette: Well, you remember we left you early last Saturday for Carson, where we took stage for Bodie. There were eight grown persons and six children crowded inside of the coach. Curses, long, loud, deep and frequent were laid on the heads of the Bodie Stage Co., and well they may have been, for how a company with any claim to respectability will allow one of their coaches to leave on a trip of that kind with fourteen passengers inside, is a mystery we presume none but the initiated can solve. But every dark cloud has its silvery lining, and so had ours—if this can be called a silvery lining. On the back seat were two ladies and four children (two children standing however). I was holding one child in my lap, and the sixth was being cared for by some other passenger. One of the two standing was bawling in a most distressing way, and her mother, to quiet her, was feasting the child on cherries, candy, milk, and finally pickles. I wondered how the child could hold so much food, and especially of such different properties. But she did not hold it long. I watched her with increasing interest until the critical moment came. Her face became deathly white, and her mind seemed to be struggling for the mastery over the stomach, but it was of no use; nature's law had been violated and the penalty had to follow. The poor girl opened her mouth as if to have a molar drawn, and from it, in an unbroken stream, and with unerring certainty, came the cherries, pickles, milk and all, and found repose in the pocket of a good natured Italian, who happened to be sitting just in front. This was a great relief to the girl, but the Italian could not quite understand.

WHERE THE LAUGH CAME IN.
Up to this time, the Italian, by his quiet, gentlemanly manner had completely won our admiration, but now his hot blood was fairly boiling; and he said I don't know, but how he looked I shall never forget. He tried to swear in English, but that was too slow for him, so he took up his native tongue, and "Oh my," how he did go. I'm so glad I can't tell what he said; it must have been awful, for we had a terrible thunder shower shortly after, which I presume to have been the result of so much profanity. The mother of the child, a red-headed Irish woman, weighing not less than 180 pounds, in her stocking feet, tried to explain that it was all an accident, and wholly unavoidable, but the son of the land of harps would not be comforted. He declared that the whole thing was premeditated. Here was a new danger, and it was evident the two were likely to have a regular shindy if something didn't happen to prevent. I think it would have resulted in that if the girl, feeling happy, and so much relieved, had not begun to sing.

"I want to be an angel,
And with the angels stand."
But for the life of me, I can't see why the words should have had any soothing effect on the Italian. Perhaps any other lines would have had the same effect; for instance, that beautiful song beginning thus:

"How sweet to feel each other's cares,
Or bear each other's woe."
or,
"God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform."

Which reminds me that these last lines must have been inspired while the writer was laboring under very adverse circumstances, and for aught I know, he may have been on his way to Bodie; or were they written at too early a day to admit of it? And so passed the day; bringing with its ending that never-to-be-forgotten Saturday night, with its long, dreary hours of torture. If suffering is any atonement for sin, may it not be that mine are wiped out? Doubtless; but still, if that be so, don't try to rid yourself of yours that way; better far to take the old orthodox medicine. But we finally arrived at Bodie (Sunday morning) more dead than alive, having been subjected to more than twenty-four hours unnecessary and inhuman treatment; thanks to the Bodie Stage Co.

THE FOURTH AT BODIE.
To-day the camp is all alive, the decorations all over town are a credit to the place, and would do honor to any town in Nevada. They surpass anything of the kind I have ever seen in any town many times the size of Bodie, and I may add, many times its age. They must have cost an immense amount of money. The procession was a wonder, when we take into consideration the difficulties under which a camp, situated as this is, so far away from anywhere, labors. I did not "take in" the literary exercises, but hear them spoken of in favorable terms. I presume they were about of the same character as those of other places on similar occasions. Bodie seems to be a camp of wonderful growth and activity, but I have not been here long enough to enable me to say much on that point—must leave that for some other time.

ASA DEURY.
Lots of Lumber.
The Pacific Lumber and Wood Company at Clinton have an order for three million feet of lumber for the new shaft of the Eureka Consolidated mine. They will run the mill day and night.

A SINEWY COMBAT.

A Street Engagement Between James H. Kinkead and H. H. Beck.

Those who heard or read a report of H. H. Beck's speech at the meeting on Tuesday evening were not surprised to hear last evening that he and James H. Kinkead had had a street fight. The encounter took place about eight o'clock last evening. Kinkead was standing in front of Knott & Jones' store, affably talking with some acquaintances, when H. H. Beck came in sight, cruising down the sidewalk with canvas snugly stowed, ready for any hostile cruiser that might give chase or fire across his bow. As he held to his course down opposite the enemy, with every sail drawing and hauled hard to the wind and without a sign of coming about Kinkead brought him up all standing with the hail: "You told some damned dirty lies about me last evening." Beck replied that he had told the truth. "You lie and you know it," returned Kinkead. Here Beck unlimbered one of his fists for action, but by some foreign intervention was prevented from casting it at his enemy. The dialogue was then resumed with great spirit on both sides, Beck's account with the Savings Bank forming the principal topic of discussion. Beck's eagle beak became more and more aquiline as the conversation progressed in warmth and developed in bitterness. Finally Kinkead gave the lie again, and Beck struck out wildly with his talons. They clutched the necktie of Kinkead and tore it from his collar. Then followed a scene of wild confusion. Arms flew wildly about in the air, hands struck out at vacancy and curses chilled the evening air. Men and boys rushed to the scene of the combat and the two controversialists were surrounded by a ring of interested spectators. "Jim's got a gun," "No he hasn't," "Old Beck's getting out his pistol," "Why didn't Beck shoot?" "Look out boys they're going to shoot," "There they pull," "Beck's got the drop," "Jim'll lick," such were the cries appropriate to the occasion. The engagement was very brief. Mutual friends interfered before any precious blood was shed. Neither combatant had a pistol. The war of words was continued after the sinewy contest had ceased but the presence of numerous friends of law and order prevented a resumption of active hostilities. The parties to the engagement shortly separated, the crowd dispersed and Virginia street resumed its accustomed air of tranquillity by night.

That Offer.
A GAZETTE reporter interviewed Jerry Schooling in regard to the following item from this morning's Journal:

"Mr. James H. Kinkead, when he first got up from his sick bed, went to Mr. Schooling and other creditors of the bank, and offered to turn 'everything over to a committee whose name he might name, for the benefit of all the creditors. That is his position now."

The offer was to turn over the assets to the attaching creditors. Mr. Schooling says that he paid no attention to it, because the bank could not turn over the assets to the attaching creditors without they released their attachments, which he and others did not propose to do.

The Creditors' Committee.
The committee appointed by the creditors of the Reno Savings Bank at their meeting last Tuesday evening have had a consultation and formed a plan of operations. The committee is composed of three members, H. H. Beck, Chairman, Jerry Schooling and E. C. McKinney. The committee invite such creditors as are willing to trust to their honor to come forward and execute an assignment of their claims to the committee, in order that such claims may be presented against the bank. By commencing an action the committee think they can get a receiver appointed.

Mason Valley Liquors.
The Sutor Independent tells this: A stranger called at Downing's saloon the other day and asked for a drink of good whiskey. "Is this a good article?" asked the stranger. "Well, it ought to be," said Downing, "for I made it myself." "What! Do you make your own liquors?" "Certainly," said Downing. "Here is some California wine of my own manufacture; this is brandy, and this," said he, passing his hand back to the first bottle, "is possee café." I thought you called that California wine," said the stranger. "So I did," said Downing; "but do you suppose we Mason Valley saloon keepers have a bottle for each kind of liquors? Not much!"

A Lecture This Evening.
The Rev. Dr. Bushnell of San Jose will lecture in the Reform Club hall this evening on the subject of Temperance. The reverend gentleman is agent for the Encyclopedia Britannica and is on his way to Oregon for a lengthy canvass of that section. He comes highly recommended and his lecture will be interesting. It is free to all.

Fell From a Third Story Window.
Frank Chapman, a young man well known in Reno, met with a serious accident in Chico early yesterday morning. He fell from a third story window of the Union Hotel to the ground. His right arm was broken and he received internal injuries. The doctors yesterday had small hopes of his recovery. He had been in Chico about three weeks.

The Sewer Tax.
The Board of County Commissioners yesterday passed an ordinance levying a sewer tax. The tax is 92 cents per foot of frontage on the property drained by the Commercial Row sewer. The sewer starts from Virginia street and runs east through an alley back of Commercial Row, crosses Centre street and runs down Lake street to the river.

BY TELEGRAPH.

A Committee of Safety at Merced. MERCED, Cal., July 8.—The town has been lately overrun with bad characters. Several shooting affrays have recently occurred, besides other lawless actions on the part of tramps. The citizens got tired of this kind of work, and have organized a safety committee who ordered all bad characters to leave. They are doing so in a hurry.

Fatal Shooting at Denver.

DENVER, COL., July 8.—Last night a fatal shooting affray occurred between Elmer Hayman and Tom Stevens. The latter was fatally wounded and the former slightly. The shooting was the result of a family feud which has existed for some time.

TOWN ORDER.

An Ordinance Closing Business Places on Sunday.

Be it ordained by the Board of County Commissioners of Washoe County, State of Nevada:

SECTION 1. That on and after the 4th Sunday in July, A. D. 1880, all business places within corporate limits of the town of Reno, Washoe county, State of Nevada, shall be closed on the first day of the week, commonly known as Sunday or the Lord's day, excepting vegetable stands and butcher shops, that may be opened until 10 o'clock on said day, and excepting hotels, restaurants, saloons, drug stores and living stables, that may be opened during all of said day.

SECTION 2. Any person violating the provisions of Section one, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of one day for each $25 of said fine.

STATE OF NEVADA.

COUNTY OF WASHOE.
I, Mark Parish, County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, in and for Washoe county, Nevada, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of the original ordinance passed by the Board of County Commissioners, which now remains on file and record in my office in Reno, in said county.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Reno, this 7th day of July, A. D. 1880.

Beck and the Bank.

H. H. Beck to-day told a GAZETTE reporter that although on his personal account at the Savings Bank there is a balance against him of $384, the bank holds stocks of his, of which the market value to-day is about $500, and which cost a good deal more. Therefore the bank is indebted to him and not he to the bank.

So far as the Lake Mills account is concerned, the bank is indebted to the Mills $230 on current account. The note to which reference was made in the Journal this morning was for $10,000, and was simply given to the bank to place for discount. The bank paid out no money on it, but had it discounted at Mr. Beck's, the Nevada Bank in San Francisco. The note does not fall due until July 24, and will not, in all probability, be paid by the Reno Savings Bank.

How Things Look in Como.

J. C. Woodward is in from Como. He reports that the Welter mill is still shut down and has not been in operation for six months. It is expected that it will shortly start up on North Rapidan ore. Fifty or sixty men are now at work in the district. About a dozen mines are being developed. The North Rapidan employs the most men. The prospects of the camp are better now than ever. There is no trouble from water in the mines and no lack of it outside. The population is about stationary. The camp is holding its own. There are about a dozen women in the town, some of them married. There are two saloons, but one of them is closed. The miners are paid $4 a day.

A Business Board.

There is trouble among the members of Truckee Lodge of Odd Fellows again. It seems that at the time the Sheriff sold the building the Savings Bank agreed to take it at a valuation of $26,000, leaving the lodge free of debt. The bank gave up $18,000 of the bonds and agreed to secure and turn over the other $8,000 in six months. Upon this agreement the trustees, F. C. Updike, C. C. Powning and J. H. Kinkead, signed an absolute deed to J. H. Kinkead conveying the title to him. He immediately mortgaged the property for $15,000, leaving the $8,000 in bonds still out. The lodge has therefore a debt of $8,000 still to pay. A meeting was held last night and a very lively discussion kept up until 11 o'clock. There is a good deal of feeling among the members at the action of the trustees.

PERSONAL.

A. McIntosh of Boca is in town. Big Bill, formerly of Reno, was killed in Idaho a few days ago.

J. W. Adams, Lieutenant-Governor, came over last night to meet Mrs. Adams. They took the train for Carson this morning.

Impure Breath.

Among all the disagreeable consequences that follow the decay of the teeth, an impure breath must be the most mortifying and unpleasant to its possessor, and it is the most incurable and offensive in society; and yet the cause of it may easily be removed, by cleansing your teeth daily with that justly popular dentifrice, Fragrant SOZODONT. It purifies and sweetens the breath, cools and refreshes the mouth, and gives a pearl-like appearance to the teeth. Gentlemen who indulge in smoking should cleanse their teeth with SOZODONT, as it removes all unpleasant odors of the weed. Ask your druggist for it. July 1st-D&W

Stop That Cough.

With a simple bottle of Kaiser's German Elixir. This is the most wonderful cough remedy ever introduced, being mild, yet positive in its action and soothing under all circumstances. Old and young may use it with perfect security. It is rich in the medicinal properties of tar, wild cherry and horehound. Ask your druggists, Messrs. Osburn & Shoe maker, about its merits. They sell large quantities of it and say it supercedes all others. The genuine bears the Prussian coat of arms and the facsimile signature of Dr. Kaiser on the wrapper and has his name blown in every 75 cent bottle. Samples 25 cent. Large size 75 cents. feb 8-d&w
